

Product feature [Steriwash Sanitizer]

Many restaurants are unclear about what to sanitize and how to do it. Inadequate sanitizing of food contact surfaces may allow harmful bacteria to survive and contaminate food.

Restaurants are required to ensure the following are clean and sanitized:

- Eating and drinking utensils
- Food contact surfaces and equipment

Difference between cleaning and sanitizing?

Cleaning means the removal of visible dirt or residual food matter, but it can still leave behind bacteria that are too small to be seen.

Sanitizing refers to the use of heat or chemicals to destroy any dangerous bacteria that might remain.

You should use Steriwash Santizer because...

- It is SABS and HACCP approved
- It is suitable for use in a food business
- It is odour-free so it doesn't contaminate the taste of food
- It is non-corrosive on most metal surfaces
- It can save time and water because it is a no-rinse sanitizer. Simply spray on and leave.
- It can be diluted and used as a 'clean as you go' sanitizer in a bucket of water
- It can be used to soak cutlery, crockery, mops and brooms

Employee of the month [Cowboy J Nyathi]

Cowboy grew up in Alexandra, Johannesburg, where he still lives with his wife and three children.

While working as a carpenter in Edenvale, Cowboy persuaded his older brother to teach him how to drive a truck. He passed his driver's first time in Pretoria in 1990. Cowboy joined Joe Soap as a driver in 1996 and hasn't looked back.

One of the longest serving members of the team, Cowboy pulls off 25 deliveries each day.

"From Fourways to Pretoria; Randpark Ridge to Delmas, I cross Gauteng on a daily basis. I know each and every customer... It is a pleasure for me to be able to deliver to them so that they are happy."

Honesty is an important value for Cowboy.

"It is important to be open and honest at work. I try to be open when I make a mistake because I don't want to lose the boss's trust."
