Employee of the month [Simon Bhuku]

Simon Bhuku grew up in KwaZulu Natal. In the early eighties, the political instability sweeping through South Africa propelled Simon towards Johannesburg, where he completed his matric in Soweto. As a young man, with no family, Simon was taken under the wing of a skilled technician and mentor who provided him with a range of competencies including the installation and maintenance of pump devices. Twenty years later he continues to use these skills in his work at Joe Soap.

Simon is on the road most of the time. He is responsible for the installation and maintenance of a little machine attached to industrial dishwashers. This device calculates and dispenses just the right amount of dishwashing liquid.

Simon is also trained in to perform a HACCP assessment and provides clients with recommendations to ensure that their kitchens are HACCP compliant.

"Working at Joe Soap is really fulfilling, especially the installations and electrics. I am so grateful to everyone who has helped me learn what I know today."
